This note is from the PDF The Psychology of Zen: Science of Knowing, Ohio State University, October 4, 1977:

<https://selfdefinition.org/rose/Richard-Rose-1977-1004-Psychology-of-Zen-Science-of-Knowing-OSU.pdf>

In this lecture Rose reads selections from a paper entitled “Psychology of the Observer” while he injects explanatory comments. There were at least three university lectures on this subject given in 1977-78. One of these lectures was released by Rose Publications in an audio CD with the same title. The present transcription is of a different recording, although Rose reads from the same paper in both. Two years later, in 1979, Rose published the book Psychology of the Observer, which contained new material plus extracts from the university lectures. The book and CD are available from richardroseteachings.com. After the book was typeset but before it was published, there was an additional university lecture known as “1979-0403-Psychology-of-the-Observer-Pitt”, in which Rose refers directly to the book. The commercial CD also contains portions of the 1979 lecture.

As of January 27, 2024 the following lectures/pages are part of this series:
